Lewis Black, President & CEO of Almonty said, "We believe this quarter represents the turning point, both in terms of the rebound in the price of APT and Almonty's continued cost control at its mining operations. Q3 2016 is the first quarter that Almonty was able to turn a profit from mining operations since the price of APT fell below US$200 per MTU.

Our continued focus on cost control is paying off and we have reduced our EBIT loss to less than 50% of the loss from Q2 2016.

We have made significant progress across all of our operations and are moving forward with the repositioning of the Wolfram Camp operations and the planned acquisition of ATC Alloys Limited.

We are also pleased to be able to file the updated NI 43-101 technical report on Sangdong demonstrating a significant improvement in the resource, both in terms of tonnage and grade of ore and are arranging debt and equity financing in order to continue our development of this project as we work towards its planned commissioning in 2017.”

Qualified Person

The amended Technical Reports filed today were prepared by Adam Wheeler, an independent mining consultant. Mr. Wheeler is an independent Qualified Person for the purposes of NI 43-101 and has prepared and/or approved the scientific and technical disclosure contained in this news release.

About Almonty

The principal business of Almonty is the mining, processing and shipping of tungsten concentrate from its Los Santos Mine in western Spain, its Wolfram Camp Mine in north Queensland, Australia and its Panasqueira mine in Portugal as well as the development of the Sangdong tungsten mine in Gangwon Province, Korea and the Valtreixal tin/tungsten project in north western Spain. The Los Santos Mine was acquired by Almonty in September 2011 and is located approximately 50 kilometres from Salamanca in western Spain and produces tungsten concentrate. The Wolfram Camp Mine was acquired by Almonty in September 2014 and is located approximately 130 kilometres west of Cairns in northern Queensland, Australia and produces tungsten and molybdenum concentrate. The Panasqueira mine, which has been in production since 1896, is located approximately 260 kilometres northeast of Lisbon, Portugal, was acquired in January 2016 and produces tungsten concentrate. The Sangdong mine, which was historically one of the largest tungsten mines in the world and one of the few long-life, high-grade tungsten deposits outside of China, was acquired in September 2015 through the acquisition of a 100% interest in Woulfe Mining Corp. Almonty owns 51% of, and has an irrevocable option to acquire a 100% ownership interest in, the Valtreixal tin-tungsten project in northwestern Spain.
